

Interview with Albert Greenberg

Related Collection

Parsons School of Design Centenary oral history project

Description

In this audio interview, Albert Greenberg, the chair of the Communication Design Department (formerly Graphic Design) of Parsons School of Design, discusses overseeing the departmental transitions during his tenure, including the transition to computer-based design and shifting student demographics. He also describes the changes he instituted to increase professionalism and develop career opportunities for students.

Date

March 7 1994

Related people

Albert Greenberg (interviewee)

Martica Sawin (interviewer)

New School \(New York, N.Y.\). New School Archives and Special Collections(publisher)

Parsons School of Design (producer)

Language

English

Use Restrictions

<http://rightsstatements.org/vocab/InC/1.0/>

Identifier

PC070101_Greenberg_19940307